NOTES FROM REV. DAN

Some things can't wait.

When we first moved our services online, I thought we'd come back together just in time for our annual Flower Service. It would be perfect — a glorious celebration of the beauty in diversity and the power of community. I envisioned an overflow crowd, reveling in our togetherness.

In hindsight, the naiveté is almost adorable.

No ritual expresses Unitarian Universalism better than the flower service. We each bring a flower, we bless them together and enjoy their beauty, and we each leave with a different flower. It is the perfect embodiment of our faith, and of the togetherness of our community. In almost twenty years of ministry, I've never missed one.

As I came to realize that quarantine was not going to end on the timetable I had imagined, at first I thought, "That's fine; we'll just hold it in June, or September, or whenever we're all back together." And maybe we will, but I now suspect that when we do come together, it won't be all at once, and some of us will still be joining online for a while. We can do that. We'll adapt, keep live streaming whether it's from homes or the congregation, and find other ways to include everyone in our services.

But some things can't wait, and there came a point when I realized that we need a flower service now, more than ever. It may be different online, but if we all join in, it can be just as beautiful.

So I'm asking you to help me. Send me a picture of yourself with at least one flower. It can be any flower — dandelions are just as good as roses. Family selfies are great, or everyone can have their own picture. If you don't want to be in the photo, just send a picture of a flower. Hey, you can even send a picture of yourself dressed as a flower. I'll take it all. To respect privacy, we'll make sure the video is only publicly available on the day it streams.

And on May 10, we'll put them together and remind ourselves just how beautiful it is when all kinds of people with all kinds of beliefs come together — whether it's in person or online. We'll remind ourselves just how vibrant our congregation is.

What a celebration it will be!

— In faith

May 3 10 am A FAITH FOR THE WORLD Rev. Dan Schatz

Unitarian Universalism means a great deal to most of us. It also means a great deal for the world - especially in a time such as this.

May 10 10 am A GIFT OF FLOWERS Rev. Dan Schatz

The Flower Celebration is one of the most beloved rituals in Unitarian Universalism. Although we can't do our flower service in person this year — at least, not when we planned it — we can celebrate together virtually.

Please send a selfie or other photo of yourself or your family with a flower or flowers to Rev. Dan (email: minister), not later than May 3. (If you don't feel comfortable including yourself in the picture, you can just send a flower. To protect privacy, this service will be public only for the day of the live stream.) Together, we will present to each other a gift of flowers.

May 17 10 am GROWINGS Rev. Dan Schatz and Congregation Members

How are you growing during this time of quarantine? What have you learned? During this service some of our members will share their "growings" from the past two months. If you would like to share some of your thoughts as part of this service, please contact Rev. Dan right away.

May 24 10 am CREATION LIVES Christin Green

Last month marks the 50th annual celebration of Earth Day in the United States. Earthlings have incorporated this type of appreciation and learning into their lives for a half century. We have made great strides and also grave mistakes.

How do we celebrate the Earth while facing the realities of its destruction? How do we cope with the losses and also make a positive impact? Join guest minister, Christin Green, to explore life-giving responses to our planet.

Christin Green is a UU minister newly welcomed into preliminary fellowship. She is the adopted daughter of two midwestern women who raised her in a suburb of Kansas City, Missouri.

Christin is a scholar of language, identity politics, sound healing, and theology. She graduated from Wesley Theological Seminary in May 2019 and has served as a minister or chaplain in churches, hospitals, and the community. Christin looks forward to sharing sacred time and good vibes together in beloved community.

May 31 10 am POETRY OF PRINCIPLE Sarah Hyson

What words guide you through your days? Join us on May 31 for poetry inspired by the seven Principles of Unitarian Universalism and poems that inspire the members, family, and friends of our congregation.

From the President Pay It Forward

Our UU faith calls us to do what we can to help others, especially in these difficult times. I am profoundly grateful that I have stayed healthy and avoided the worst of the economic damage inflicted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Nonetheless, the federal government is sending me (and most Americans) a substantial economic relief payment, typically $1,200 per adult.

I'll be donating my federal payment to UCWC's new Pay It Forward fundraiser, and if your circumstances allow, I encourage you to do the same.

Pay it Forward will help our Share the Plate recipients and allow UCWC to continue our good works despite the devastating economic crash and the grave uncertainty about how long the pandemic will last.

In Paying It Forward, you will have three options:

- All of your donation can be directed to be evenly split among our Share the Plate recipients.
- You can allocate half to the recipients and half to UCWC.
- You can allocate all of it to UCWC.

We launched Paying It Forward to help fill the financial void created by the pandemic. We cannot rent out our building, we won't have an in-person auction this fall, and we are still learning how well it will work to pass a "virtual" collection basket during online services.

Your generosity in the Stewardship drive has produced a helpful and much-appreciated "leap" in pledges, and your strong commitment to our future is truly inspiring. Unfortunately, the pandemic is still leaving us a hole to fill. Our Share the Plate recipients face a similar uncertainty about their funding, when many more people need their services.

To help, you may donate all or part of your federal check to Pay It Forward. You can mail it to the office (501 S. High Street, West Chester PA 19382) or donate online: ucwc.org/pay-it-forward. If you itemize on your tax return, the entire gift will be deductible. But even if you take the standard deduction, you may separately deduct $300 of any charitable donation (including your pledge payments).

As always, we at UCWC are mindful that not all of us are blessed with economic security or stability, especially now. If you need financial assistance, remember that Rev. Dan has a Minister's Discretionary Fund specifically to help our members in difficult times. Contact him at email: minister. All assistance is confidential.

Our Share the Plate recipients face a similar uncertainty about their funding, when many more people need their services.

Q&A Session Sunday May 17, 11:30 am

Do you have questions about Unitarian Universalism? Are you curious about our congregation and what kind of community we strive to be? Are you fairly new and would like to just chat a bit with others after the streamed service?

Grab some coffee after the service and join us via Zoom. We're looking forward to chatting with you. Contact Lisa Kerschner at email: membership for Zoom URL and password, and watch for it in Connections in mid-May.

Membership Committee

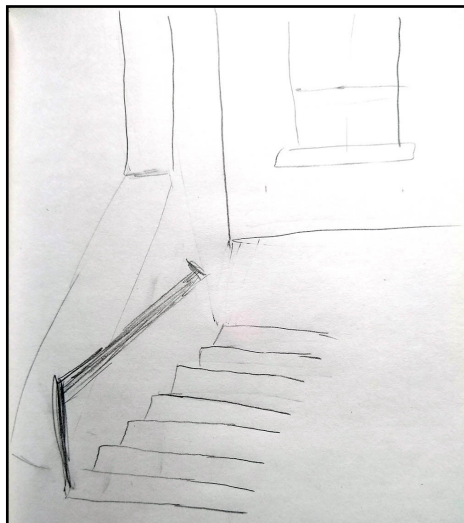

It is exciting to see how much we are all "coming together" right now, despite needing to stay in our homes.

There is no need to feel alone — take a look at the UCWC calendar for May. You'll see there are ways to connect with friends just about every day of the month. Weekly women's gatherings on Tuesdays and Fridays, Men's Group on the first Tuesday, open chat with the minister every Wednesday, coffee hour after service, open chats with any number of UCWC friends on Monday and Thursday, and more. Add a few activities to your May calendar — get to know your friends better, be connected, and feel at ease as we support and encourage each other.

REmarks: Religious Education Update Drawing on Our Memories

A few weeks ago, I asked children, parents, and teachers to bring paper and markers/pencils with them to our virtual Children's/Family Worship. After we finished our usual activities, I invited everyone to take a few minutes to think of an object or event from UCWC that they particularly remembered or liked, and to draw a picture of it.

When we were done, we took turns holding our drawings up to the cameras on our devices and describing our pictures. Here's some of what I saw and heard:

A sketch of two chairs, representing being together in the sanctuary for Sunday service, and a diagram of the downstairs layout representing being in RE — overall, the wonderful energy of being together in both upstairs and downstairs in our building on Sunday mornings.

The Feast of Decadent Chocolate, complete with a detail of a chocolate bar. "I don't like chocolate," said the child who shared this, "but other people do, and it's fun."

The outside "classroom" at The Concept School, where we held services and RE during our building renovations, with the bridge over the little stream, and the big oak tree.

A zombie attack. (For details on the former UCWC Zombie Council, see the February 2019 Fellowtarian)

A picture of a daisy, representing our annual Flower Communion.

The ledge above the stairwell leading to the RE space on the Lower Level. One of our RE teachers, who used to attend RE classes at UCWC herself, described how she and a classmate would sit there every Sunday after RE, waiting for their parents to finish talking during Coffee Hour. She titled it, "Everywhere, Everywhere You May Go." (From the song we used to "sing out" the children from the sanctuary: "Go now in peace. Go now in peace. May the light of love surround you, everywhere, everywhere, you may go.")

I was so moved by each of the shared drawings. They created a beautiful reminder that even though it might look like we're all having the same experience — listening to the same sermon/service, sitting in the same RE class, having the same time after classes to fill — we each have our own, individual experiences; we each have our own memories that we hold dear. And even though we're currently attending Sunday services and RE via Facebook and Zoom, we're still having experiences and forming memories that connect us to one another and to UCWC.

Pastoral Care

The Pastoral Care Team contact for this month is Diane Cohle.

Small Group Ministry

During the epidemic, our Small Group Ministries are meeting by Zoom. Small Group Ministry is a way to gather with other Unitarian Universalists twice a month for community, conversation, and connection. Each session is organized around a theme and includes a chalice lighting, readings, and questions to spark discussion. Groups are led by trained facilitators who meet regularly with Rev. Dan.

Currently, our congregation has five groups which meet at different times and places. If you are interested in joining a group, please contact email: SGM.

Men's Group

The Tuesday evening men's group will meet on May 5 at 7:00 pm via Zoom. Like last time, the Zoom link will be sent out directly via email.

If you are interested in participating but are not yet on the email distribution list, please reach out to Mark or Dirk at email: mens-group. All men are welcome.

Grocery Gift Cards

Grocery Gift Cards are now available for purchase by appointment. Contact Mira Tryon at email: grocery-program to make arrangements for picking up your order. We all still need food while continuing to support UCWC. Thank you for your flexibility and cooperation.

Also, if anyone would like to donate grocery gift cards to the West Chester Food Cupboard, we can facilitate this with no personal contact on your part. Contact us at email: grocery-program for information. Help do your part, because no one should go hungry.

Ask the Minister Service

Is there something you'd like to know about theology, UU history, world religions, or sacred writings? Do you want to know what your minister thinks about an issue that you care about? Or do you have questions about ministry itself?

During the month of May, Dan will take questions on whatever topics you'd like to hear about. You can send your questions to Dan (email: minister) anytime before June 7. All questions will be read anonymously. On Sunday, June 14, Dan will go through and answer the questions.

Be a part of these two great upcoming Sunday Services

Flower Service

In the Unitarian Universalist Flower Celebration, each person brings a flower with them to the service. For this service, we are asking each of you to email a photograph of yourself or your family with flowers to email: minister, no later than May 3. You can also simply send a photo of the flower.

To protect privacy, the video of the service will only be publicly available on the day of the live stream.

Sanctuary Congregation Team Support Local Immigrants and Refugees

Please join the Sanctuary Congregation Team in supporting immigrants who remain in detention at the Berks County Detention Center, increasing their risk for exposure to the COVID-19 virus. Even though the governor has shut down the capitol and schools across the commonwealth, and county commissioners have issued the release of individuals in the county jail, immigrants remain detained unnecessarily, housed in cramped and unsanitary conditions.

Most detainees are people awaiting legal action on their immigration status, not individuals charged with a crime. Many are families with children. To learn more and to sign the petition urging Governor Wolf to immediately issue an emergency removal order to stop ICE from using the detention center as a family prison, click here.

Questions or concerns? Contact the team at email: sanctuary.

First Sunday Food Collection

In this time of social distancing, we are not collecting food the first Sunday of each month. Instead, you can make a financial donation or donate a grocery store gift card with no personal contact on your part. Contact Cyndy Bullaughey, email: grocery-program, for information.

You can also click here and give an online cash donation directly to the West Chester Food Cupboard, using a debit card, a credit card, or PayPal.

The current situation has posed many problems for the Food Cupboard, and food donations are not a safe option. A cash donation allows them to buy food in bulk and have it delivered.

The West Chester Food Cupboard commits to provide a variety of fresh and nonperishable healthy food items to West Chester residents in need...because no one should go hungry!

Black Lives Matter Update

The Black Lives Matter Committee continues to engage in and learn ways to share the importance of racial justice matters in our lives and congregation.

We are participating in Debby Irving's 21-Day Racial Equity Habit Building Challenge®. Her goal is for 21 days, do one action to further your understanding of power, privilege, supremacy, oppression, and equity. Her website offers resources and suggestions for taking the challenge.

Although the UUA sponsored Jubilee workshop was canceled, the April 26 Zoom 1619 Project Symposium is going forward.

Many of our committee are participating in these events. Please contact email: black-lives-matter for more information.

Pay It Forward Fundraiser

The federal government is sending many of us a payment of up to $1200 to help offset the economic harm inflicted during the COVID pandemic. If you are blessed with good fortune and can carry on without the relief payment, please consider contributing to our Pay It Forward fundraiser, which benefits our Share the Plate recipients and supports all that we do as UCWC to sustain our faith community. See this month's president's message from Matt Zencey (p. 3) for more details, or go online at: ucwc.org/pay-it-forward.

Thanks to your generous spirits, deep compassion, and attention to one another's needs, we will continue to grow as a beacon for liberal religious values and as a community of love, through the pandemic and beyond.

Making “Beautiful Trouble”

For inspiration and hope about public policy, watch Rev. Shawna Foster's presentation “Love, Power, and Politics” given at the 2020 UUPLAN Annual Meeting. Video of the sessions will be available on the UUPLAN website.

Rev. Foster is a member of the Prophetic Council of the Poor People's Campaign. In her talk she used her successful fight to keep the state of Colorado paying for school meals for poor children to illustrate how to map a strategy and navigate power to get the votes you need. Beautiful Trouble is the title of a book and toolkit that she referenced. Support UU values in Pennsylvania by joining UUPLAN.

Share the Plate

Diversity Book Group

Sunday, May 13 (Note Third Sunday) 7:00 - 8:00 PM

This month's book is The Warmth of Other Suns by Isabel Wilkerson. Lorrie McKinley and Pam Seres will be our leaders. We met through Zoom in April and will do so again in May if necessary. Details to come.

The Warmth of Other Suns is about the African American migration from the southern United States to the North from the years just after WW I until about 1976. The author follows four people from different places in the south, all from different walks of life, who ended up in different northern cities where they lived for the rest of their lives.

None of these people knew each other, and their stories are very different. Their journeys had many common themes, however, and often resonate with the immigrant stories we read about every day in our own time.

These people did not know or believe that they were part of a migration or any other kind of movement, and to call them immigrants is not technically accurate. They were all born here, after all, as were their parents and generations of grandparents before them. They simply did what they had to do for themselves and their families. Their experiences set the stage for many of the forces at play today and provide context for, among other things, the Black Lives Matter movement.
