April 2021

NOTES FROM REV. DAN

April begins with Passover this year, in the Jewish calendar. I find myself missing the Seders we have shared in our sanctuary, honoring this ancient Jewish festival by retelling the story of the Exodus from Egypt, sharing food and wine, giving thanks, and committing ourselves to justice for all people.

A traditional Passover Seder ends with four words, shouted by the whole table – “Next year in Jerusalem!” To be honest, I’ve never been very comfortable with this part of the ritual. It sounds overly militant and triumphalist to my ears and seems to strike a discordant note to me.

Not this year, though. This year, I get it. This year, when it feels like we have all been held in bondage to a disease which has kept us from going about our lives, seeing our loved ones, earning a living, or raising the rafters in harmony together, I get it. We will find our way through this. Things will get better.

“Next year in Jerusalem” is not a geopolitical statement; it’s a spiritual one. It’s a recognition that just as the Hebrew people were in bondage so long ago, we too understand suffering. The bondage of our day may be medical or societal. It may be injustice like White supremacy, misogyny, transphobia or homophobia, or it may be the habits of thinking that uphold such ills.

Or it may be a tiny germ, a disease we will overcome, but haven’t quite yet.

Yes, the path is long. Yes, the desert is dry and hot and frankly boring. Yes, we yearn to just be done with it – but this is not the time to turn back. We are not ready to let go of our obligation to care for each other or ourselves, no matter how much we wish to be over it all. But we will get there. As we keep up the desert journey, we remind ourselves with every step: “Next year in Jerusalem.”

For those who celebrate Passover, may your Seder table be blessed. For all of us – may we remember who we are, what we have been through, and all we dedicate ourselves to, and may we take one more step forward. And the next.

— In faith, Dan

May we remember who we are, what we have been through, and all we dedicate ourselves to, and may we take one more step forward. And the next.

Our Mission

As a diverse liberal faith congregation, we make a difference in our lives, our children’s lives, and the wider community by creating an environment for spiritual growth and fulfillment, for building meaningful connections, and for actively advancing peace and justice in the world.

Office Hours

In person office hours are suspended during the epidemic, but Rev. Dan can be reached at email minister or on his cell phone. During the week of April 12-18, Dan will be away from the office. For pastoral care during this time, please write to email: pastoral-care. For other questions, please contact email: office.

Sunday Services

We gather, aspiring to be a thriving, caring, and welcoming community that supports each person's spiritual journey, embraces diversity, challenges us to live responsibly, and is a catalyst for a just and compassionate world.

Connecting in the 'Verse

On April 18 we will have our annual poetry service, and we need participants. Our theme this year is connecting with each other through poetry. Congregation members of ALL ages are invited to read or submit their own poetry (or some of their favorite verses). If you or your child would like to participate, please contact Sarah Hyson at email: poetry. All poems must be submitted by Sunday, April 11.

STRENGTHENING OUR FRAGILE DEMOCRACY

Tom Buglio, Matt Zency, and Charlot Barker

While our US democracy has always been far from perfect, powerful forces today are rolling back voting rights, weaponizing lies and entrenching a rigged political system. How do our UU values call on us to respond? Join us as we explore the history of voting rights and voter suppression in our country, discuss the condition of our democracy today, why democracy is a core value of UU's, and what can be done to make our system work better for all Americans. After the Service, stay for a "Braver Angels" session whose mission statement is to overcome the great political divide in our country.

The service is organized by Matt Zencey, Charlot Barker and Tom Buglio of the UCWC Defenders of Democracy.

CONNECTING IN THE 'VERSE

Sarah Hyson

Connections formed through the art of poetry, reaching out to others in verse, is the theme of this year's poetry service. An annual event at our congregation, this year we focus on how we can reach across the barriers of space, of time, of understanding, and connect with one another using poetry. Members of the congregation, including some of our children, will share with us some of their personal or favorite verses.

INTO THE FOREST

Rev. Dan Schatz

What does it mean to enter the forest? On this Sunday following Earth Day, we turn our attention to the forest as both ecological and spiritual symbol.

Looking Ahead:

May 2 Flower Service

The Flower Celebration is one of the most beloved rituals in Unitarian Universalism. Although we can't do our flower service in person this year, we can celebrate together virtually. Please send a selfie or other photo of yourself or your family with a flower or flowers to Rev. Dan (email: minister) no later than April 25. If you don't feel comfortable including yourself in the picture, you can just send a photo of a flower.

From the President

In mid-March, your Board of Trustees presented a draft congregational mission statement built on three themes: Grow, Love, Serve. (See article, right.) Here, I will talk a bit more about one of those themes: Serve.

"Serve" covers two distinct areas. It refers to what we do in the world beyond our doors, as we work for social justice and act on our UU values. It also applies inside our religious home, to what we do to sustain our faith community here at UCWC.

This internally-focused type of service is easy to overlook. It often involves behind-the-scenes, nuts and bolts tasks. Often, these tasks feel like work. In fact, we basically talk about them as a type of work. We have "job descriptions." We ask you to "volunteer" or to be on a "committee," (which is surely one of the least inspiring words in the English language). In some roles, if you do step forward, you may end up serving until you find your own replacement. Meanwhile, your service may draw little notice, leaving you feeling unappreciated.

It's no surprise then, that we're having issues filling some key roles, like membership leader, program coordinator, and leadership development. Typically, we recruit simply by asking around about potential candidates. There is no open listing of roles that need filling. We may not have current info handy on what the role involves, or what skills are helpful for doing it. Our ranks include folks with many skills and interests, but we don't have a good system for gathering and updating that info. For those in our pews (or these days, watching on YouTube), it's not obvious how someone can step into a role — say, lay leader, or Board member, or choir, or even — when we meet in-person — a coffee maker, greeter or usher.

All of this is a symptom of how we treat tasks and roles too much like "work" instead of something that contributes to a greater spiritual whole. We need to create a sense that each act of service is both an act of love for those in our faith community and an opportunity to grow as a person — growing in connection to others, in things you can accomplish, in the values you express with your actions.

I will ask the Board to discuss creating an ad hoc group that will look at ways we can cultivate such a culture of service, one that is rooted in our community, our values, and our mission — one that is open and understandable, welcoming, and appreciative. Consider this an open invitation to participate in the process. Share your thoughts or step up to serve — my email is president@ucwc.org.

Grow, Love, Serve

The UCWC Board introduced a draft mission statement to the congregation at a virtual town hall Sunday March 21, with folks on 50 Zoom screens participating.

Three short words capture the essence of the proposed statement: "Grow, Love, Serve." The full proposed statement reads:

Our mission is to:

Grow in spirit, heart, and mind.
Love through care and community.
Serve beyond ourselves.

In breakout discussion groups, the wording drew a lot of enthusiastic and favorable comments, with a consensus that "leaving aside the perfect, it is good enough to move forward." As UUs, you showed great restraint in resisting the urge to line edit.

You did provide a few specific suggestions, which the Board will review as it considers potential tweaks. We do expect Grow, Love, and Serve will remain the foundational elements. Members will be asked to give final approval to our mission statement at the annual meeting, where the question will be "Yes, we approve" or "Send it back for more work."

Missed the Town Hall? The presentation can be viewed here. If you have questions or comments, contact me at email: president.

*Do you have questions about Unitarian

Lifespan Faith Development

Our Kids and Our Mission

On Sunday, April 4, our children will join together for a group discussion of our newly proposed UCWC mission statement during our RE class at 9 am, and our youth will discuss during their class at 11 am. We are so excited to present this framework and hear how our children and youth engage with it. Let's brainstorm together what RE means to us, what we want our space to be like, how we can embody the values of our congregation in our classrooms, and how this mission statement might fit into it all.

Meditation Practices

Join us this April as we meet to explore and practice various methods of meditation together. This group is a follow up to our Yoga Sutra of Patanjali and the Discussion of the Buddhist 8-Fold Path, but you do not need to have attended either event to join us for meditation. RSVP to email: Adult-RE and keep an eye on Connections for the date and more info.

Reflections

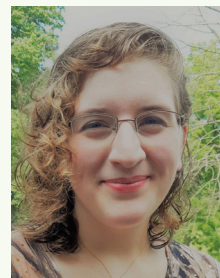

Spring is here, and as the air warms up and plants begin budding again, so too are we getting our creative juices flowing this April. Creativity is a great way to banish those winter blues, to foster a deep knowing of yourself, and to form relationships with others around you.

Many of us have tried new hobbies this year as we've been stuck social distancing – baking, knitting, writing, painting, and more. Why not show off your skills or try out some new? We've got many different creative events for every age, talent, and interest to help bring a smile and some fun to our month here at UCWC.

What are you creative about? Social justice? Community? Creating or appreciating art or writing? Deep thinking or feeling? Laughing? Whatever sparks your curiosity and energy and brings life to you after a long year of pandemic – that's what we want to express together.

Check out the many events throughout the Fellowtarian this month to plan some fun into your schedules, or watch the Connections and drop in to any sessions that interest you.

Walk the Chalk

This year for Earth Day we are welcoming a class from West Chester University to create a beautiful display of chalk art and messages along our sidewalks in celebration of our world. We are educating about the Earth and sustainability through art made directly on the earth.

These artists will display their creations on April 22, and we invite our families, members, friends, and visitors to mask up and stop by the congregation that afternoon and evening to "Walk the Chalk". Let's enjoy the art together, educate ourselves about the Earth, and if you have Kindness Rocks we can place them around our grounds to add to the art.

Kindness Rocks

Making Kindness Rocks in 2019

All ages of children, youth, and adults are invited to join us on Sunday, April 18, at 1 pm for a Zoom Painting Party, as we make Kindness Rocks together. Kindness Rocks are simply rocks we use to paint images and phrases on to spread kindness and happiness to others, and they are placed where others can easily pick them up and take home some kindness.

As Unitarian Universalists we know that all people are important, that we all deserve to be treated kindly and fairly, and that we want to build a fair and peaceful world. Making Kindness Rocks helps us to actively work on these principles and pass it forward. If you would like to receive a Kindness Rock kit by pickup or drop off, please contact Cassie at email: DLFD.

Join Us This Spring for “Explorations” A Program for Beginning and Deepening our UU Journeys

After a successful series this fall, we are bringing back the Explorations program for this spring. This is a Small-Group-style program that is a great way to make some connections and deepen your relationships with others as you engage some guided readings and discussion questions together. The program examines what it means to be a Unitarian Universalist through weekly topics that bring together newcomers and longtime members alike as we delve into our common faith and our individual experiences.

We will meet on the second and fourth Wednesday of the month at 7 pm for five sessions. You do not need to attend all five to participate, but we’d love to have you for as many as you can make. Join us April 14, April 28, May 12, May 26, and June 9. RSVP to email: Adult-RE or join us on zoom as you can.

Ethical Discussion Group Based on “The Good Place”

This Adult RE discussion group will meet the first and third Wednesday of each month to watch and discuss an episode(s) of the hit TV show on NBC, “The Good Place” and to discuss its ethical questions.

This show is hilarious, and it offers a fun way to discuss and explore our morals and values. How do we form beliefs, and how do they stand up to time and testing? How do we decide to live a moral life, what are the ramifications, and what about an afterlife? How do we integrate the inherent worth and dignity of ourselves and others into how we act? And so much more!

RSVP to email: Adult-RE or join us for any session. We will view the Season 1 finale on April 7 and continue onto Season 2. (Season 1 is available to borrow if needed.)

Theology Group

Are you interested in studying theology? Do you find yourself wondering about the big questions of life? How do you decide what to base your beliefs on? How can we balance our individual freedom of belief and our Unitarian Universalist communal faith? If this interests you, we’d love to have you help plan a theology group with us. Contact email: DLFD if you are interested.

The Poetry of the Psalms: Writing our Joys and Sorrows

Join us on Monday, April 26, at 7 pm for an interactive look at the poetry of the Psalms and some hands-on creativity in writing our own poems. When we read the Psalms, we see the heights of happiness and praise and the depths of pain and despair, and we can relate to these emotions through our own Unitarian Universalist tradition of sharing our joys and sorrows with one another.

This past year we have experienced so much sorrow – both individually and communally – and yet we have also held space for gratitude and hope. Let’s bring all these emotions and experiences into a space of creative expression together. RSVP to email: Adult-RE or join us that night on Zoom.

Pastoral Care

The Pastoral Care Team contact for this month is Barbara Dallara

Emerging Anew!

As Reverend Dan recently said, “We know how much we value music, religious education, adult programming, social justice, and the community we create together. We can envision a congregation that is more vibrant, energetic, and engaged than the one that went into its cocoon last March. If we give to that vision, the result will be glorious indeed”.

Please think about how much UCWC means to you, now and when we are able to emerge anew, and pledge your support now for the coming fiscal year that starts July 1. Check the website <https://ucwc.org/giving/> for pledging guidance and to pledge online. You can also go directly to the pledge pages:

- Make Your Annual Pledge
- Pledge for the First Time

If you prefer, you can mail in the printed pledge forms that were delivered or mailed to you.

UCWC depends entirely on all its members and friends to support its operational budget. Your pledge matters. Contact email: stewardship with any questions or to discuss your personal circumstances. Thank you!

Small Group Ministry

During the epidemic, our Small Group Ministries are meeting by Zoom. Small Group Ministry is a way to gather with other Unitarian Universalists twice a month for community, conversation, and connection.

Each session is organized around a theme and includes a chalice lighting, readings, and questions to spark discussion. Groups are led by trained facilitators who meet regularly with Rev. Dan.

Currently, our congregation has five groups which meet at different times and places. If you are interested in joining a group, please contact email: SGM.

UU History and Theologies

What’s the difference between a Unitarian and a Universalist? Who were the Socinians? What does Count Dracula have in common with the Unitarianism? Who was Pete Seeger’s favorite circuit riding Universalist preacher? What does it mean to be a religious liberal? Could it be that UUs actually have a theological tradition of our own?

We’ll cover this and more in Rev. Dan Schatz’s Zoom class on Unitarian Universalist History and Theologies on Monday, April 19, at 7 pm. There will be stories, new perspectives, and some mind-blowing theology. Bring your questions and invite a friend, if you know someone who is interested in learning more about our “Faith of the Free.” The class is open to all — newcomers as well as those who would like to grow in their understanding of Unitarian Universalism.

Men’s Group

The Tuesday evening men’s group will meet on April 6 at 7 pm via Zoom. The topic will be “Overpopulation, the Interdependent Web and the UU Response,” and the discussion will be led by Bruce Neff and Michael Werner. All men are welcome.

The Zoom link will be sent out directly via email. If you are interested in participating but are not yet on the email distribution list, please reach out to Mark or Dirk at email: mens-group.

Stones in the Wall: Social Justice

Each event, each action is another stone in the wall of social justice.

Diversity Book Group

April 11 7:00-8:30 pm Leader: Pat Shorten

This month's book is Washington Black by Esi Edugyan. When two English brothers take the helm of a Barbados sugar plantation, Washington Black, an eleven-year-old field slave, finds himself selected as personal servant to one of them. The eccentric Christopher "Titch" Wilde is a naturalist, explorer, scientist, inventor, and abolitionist, whose single-minded pursuit of the perfect aerial machine mystifies all around him.

Titch's idealistic plans are soon shattered and Washington finds himself in mortal danger. They escape together, but then Titch disappears and Washington must make his way alone, following the promise of freedom further than he ever dreamed possible.

Inspired by a true story, Washington Black is an extraordinary tale of a world destroyed and made whole again and a 2018 Booker Prize Nominee, PEN Book Award Nominee, and many others.

Black Lives Matter

Everyone is welcome to join the Racial Justice Discussions on the third Sunday of each month at 7 pm on Zoom. Each session will have a different topic and presenter. To get on our email notification list, contact email: black-lives-matter or check Connections for more information. The April 18 discussion will be on the book Breathe by Imani Perry. Loaner copies are available by contacting Cassie Lengel at email: DLFD.

The UUA will again present Jubilee Anti-Racism Training on Zoom April 30-May 2 facilitated by three dynamic speakers from the UUA. It's a very intensive but rewarding experience that several of our members have attended. For more information, click here. There is a scholarship fund available from UCWC to help those who would like to attend.

Understanding racial injustice is an on-going educational process. If you're not sure how it applies to your life, or how you could contribute to the movement, please contact the BLM Committee at email: black-lives-matter. We can offer some suggestions.

Gun Violence Prevention

UCWC friends and members joined UUJusticePA GVP to participate in Advocacy Day on Tuesday, March 23. Highlights included educational forums with doctors, gun owners, and community-based solutions advocates and a Zoom session where state legislators heard stories of personal loss due to gun violence. The central event was a virtual rally with Governor Wolfe and Attorney General Josh Shapiro.

With gun purchasing and gun violence at a 30-year high in Pennsylvania, as well as the news of the mass shootings in Atlanta and Boulder, individuals and organizations committed to preventing gun violence must speak with the same message — pass this legislation now:

- Universal background checks
- Extreme risk protection orders (ERPO)
- Mandatory lost and stolen gun reporting

 UUJusticePA Gun Violence Prevention Co-chair

Criminal Justice Reform Events

Monday, April 19, at 7:30 pm. "Implications of Cash Bail Reform and Sentencing Reform," a presentation and discussion with Robert Lankin, founder of the Meetup group "Pennsylvania Activists to End Mass Incarceration."

Wednesday, April 28, at 4:30 pm. "Reforming the System," sponsored by Black Citizen and FAMM, originally taped live on March 14. Three progressive district attorneys (Chesa Boudin, Larry Krasner, and Rachel Rollin) discuss how racism intersects with other serious flaws in the justice system. Discussion time will be included. This program will be repeated on May 17 at 7:30 pm.

Learn About Climate Justice

The Religious Education Committee is sponsoring a special event to bring together youth and adults to discuss the state of our climate today, what we need to think about going forward, and why this is important for us as Unitarian Universalists.

Join Barrie Eichhorn on Monday, March 29, at 7 pm for a presentation based on Greta Thunberg's book, Our House is On Fire, and a discussion about how we can engage in this work and address these tough questions. Please RSVP to email: Adult-RE or join us via zoom that night.

Please support and join UUJusticePA as we look to increase membership in the social justice legislative arm of UUs in Pennsylvania.

Share-the-Plate Generosity

The Social Justice Committee's Share-the-Plate program raises money to give to local non-profit organizations working to improve life for Chester County residents. We are pleased to announce the share-the-plate recipient for April 18 (third Sunday of the month), The Melton Center.

The Charles A. Melton Arts & Education Center, known to many of us in West Chester as the Community Center, has stayed true to the spirit of its founder Dr. Pinckney-Hill who envisioned a Center to serve those marginalized by and disenfranchised from society due to economic class, gender and race.

The Center is open to all and provides programs that will bring people together to promote understanding and appreciation for each other. The Center offers education, recreation and cultural and civic events. The Center depends on donations and community support to carry on its work for our community.

Please note the following as you prepare your donation:

- All checks should be payable to "UCWC".
- Checks with memo "All to charity" or similar go to the charity. Clearest is "All to The Melton Center".
- Checks with memo "plate", "donation", "STP", or "share the plate" are split 50/50. Clearest is "STP 50/50".
- All other checks go 100% to UCWC, unless otherwise indicated.

Thank you for your generosity to February recipient, Chester County Food Bank, in the amount of $610.
